

Types of Exams

The entire process of examination is to provide learner the opportunity to solidify his/her intellectual capabilities. It also gives learner the academic credentials to ultimately assess the different levels of learning experiences and acquire knowledge for the holistic development of the learners' personality. Different types of exams are conducted as an integrated approach towards CIE pattern. Following are types of test with an underlined objective:

Weekly tests

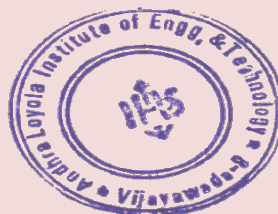

- ✚ Weekly tests are conducted for each subject in a course so as to make the students learn regularly and continuously exclusively by our college. (5)

Laboratory evaluation

- ✚ For UG programs, 50 marks are for external evaluation and 25 marks are for internal evaluation. For the purpose of CIE, 25 marks are divided as follows: 10 marks are given for a day-to-day evaluation, 5 marks are for records and 10 marks are for internal laboratory test. In case of drawing subjects, 30 marks are for internal evaluation and 70 marks are for external evaluation. Out of 30 marks, 20 marks are for the day-to-day work and 10 marks are for internal test.

Assignments

- ✚ Assignments are given for 5 marks. Students choose the topics of their choice from the text. They try to present the selected topic in an innovative manner. The main objective of this type of test is to increase the learning capability of students.
